On TRACK

By John Hoke, Editor

The season is really rolling along now, and with the weather beginning to cooperate, the times are really beginning to drop. There are over 30 meets reported in this issue--which is great--but there are still a few holdouts that seem to resist reporting their meets. It is frustrating to me, and hard to understand, why some meet directors don't want to take the time to record all the results and report them to us. We will almost always use all placewinners--most cases where you see only two or three are because that was all that was reported--and this may be the only place that some athletes will see their name in print.

I've also had a few irritated coaches or parents call because their kids weren't listed in the Season Leaders when they had marks that would have put them in the listings and in most cases it is because the meet either wasn't reported or not reported through all six places. There will be over 50 meets in the next two weeks so please help me make sure that they are all reported fully.

While on the topic of results I'm going to apologize in advance for the number of incorrect spellings and typographical errors that seem to keep cropping into the results and listings. Even though--in many cases--I have a TEAM REPORT on hand I haven't been able to take the time to check all suspicious spellings simply because of the volume of results flowing through the office and my computer. Hopefully, by Regionals and State, I'll have a better grip on this. In the meantime, bear with me.

I wish every meet was reported like the University of Central Oklahoma Relays last week. Sports Information Director Mike Kirk kept the results on his a computer and provided a copy on disk so all we had to do was import it into our system. That is also why we were able to use first names on all the competitors.

I have quite a number of college coaches that are subscribers and I would like to do a series of profiles of senior athletes that might want to compete at the collegiate level. Coaches or parents--if you have a senior that wants to compete in college, or has already committed to a particular college, please drop (or FAX) me a note with the following information: name, address, phone, school, coach, events with best times/distances, grade point average, other interests, and if already committed, name of college.

Regional assignments are in this issue and the committee responsible for this tough job is to be commended again for doing a great job.

It was also announced that the 1995 O.S.S.A.A. Cross Country meet will be hosted by Norman High School on a course yet to be determined. Further details will follow as they become available.

There will be one more issue out (April 28) before the 3A-2A-A-B Regionals on April 29th and the 5A-4A regionals on May 6th. It will contain the final pre-regional Season Leaders listings and the following issue May 14th will contain the final pre-state 5A-4A rankings and listings.

See you at a track meet!

THE ATHLETE'S KITCHEN

By Nancy Clark, MS, RD

EAT THOSE VEGGIES There's Something For Everyone.

"I hate the steam-table vegetables served at school. They're cooked to mush so I don't bother to eat them."..."I never seem to find time to buy fresh produce, to say nothing of cook it. As a result, I don't eat as many veggies as I should."..."I hate vegetables. George Bush was right. Broccoli is the worst!"

Time and again, I counsel fussy eaters who abstain from peas and corn, to say nothing of cabbage and kale. Worried parents seek advice regarding their child's refusal to eat anything green. When winter's cold and flu months roll around, even "nutrition drop-outs" express concern that they rarely eat vegetables. As Paula, an aerobics instructor and part-time receptionist confessed, "I know I should eat more vegetables, but I just don't do it. The problem is finding time to buy them and, then, staying home long enough to cook and eat them before they go bad. I waste too much money throwing away smelly cauliflower and wilted lettuce."

Confusion abounds concerning how many vegetables are enough. The new general guidelines recommend at least five servings of vegetables and/or fruits per day. (Fruits and vegetables offer some similar nutrients.) If you are on a budget, a vegetable hater, or a fast-food fan, five servings may seem an unattainable goal. But don't get discouraged before you even attempt dietary improvements...the recommended five servings relates to five small servings. Most active people eat double or triple servings without blinking an eye. For example, a lunch-time salad from the salad bar might be four servings in one bowlful; a generous portion of broccoli at dinner could be four, half-cup servings; the ladlefuls of tomato sauce on the pasta, another two to three servings. You might already be eating the recommended amount without even knowing it.

If you are remiss about consuming veggies, the following tips may help you to enhance your nutritional status.

Some vegetables are more nutritious than others. In general, dark green, deep yellow/orange and red veggies have far more nutrients than pale ones. So, if you dislike pale zucchini, summer squash and green beans, don't bother to acquire a taste for them. Instead, put your efforts into having more broccoli, spinach and winter squash—the richly colored, nutrient-dense choices. For athletes who eat pasta, generous portions of tomato sauce can add veggies to the diet of even fussy eaters. (If acceptable, fortify the tomato sauce with chopped broccoli or green peppers conveniently bought at the frozen-food section in the supermarket.)

Potatoes are one exception to the "dark color" rule. Although pale, a large baker offers 65 percent the RDA for vitamin C and all the potassium you'd lose in three hours of exercise.

If you eat fast foods, you can still eat vegetables on the run. Frank, a soccer player, boosted his veggie intake by eating fewer burgers and more pizzas with peppers, mushrooms, and extra sauce. Anita, a cyclist, traded in her lunch-time diet soda for another low-calorie choice: V-8 juice. Stir-fried Chinese vegetables is another option.

If cooked vegetables are available at the school cafeteria, eat them, even if they're overcooked. Any vegetable is better than no vegetable. Yes, cooking does destroy some of the fifty nutrients, but not all of them. During cooking, peas may lose 60 percent of their vitamin C, but 40 percent remains. Only two percent of the vitamin A is lost.

Since fresh vegetables lose nutritional value with aging, use more frozen veggies if the fresh produce is going to sit in your refrigerator for a few days. (Heat and oxygen contribute to detrimental biochemical changes that destroy vitamin C. For example, fresh spinach from the vegetable stand may have lost 70 percent of its vitamin C in a day.) Frozen vegetables are quick and easy to prepare, and won't spoil quickly.

Since cooking (more so than freezing) reduces nutritional content, quickly cook vegetables only until tender crisp. The vitamin C loss in peas steamed for three minutes is 33 percent; for nine minutes, 58 percent; the riboflavin loss is 30 and 50 percent respectively. Some of the vitamin losses can be recovered in the cooking water. Save the water for soups or stews, or simply drink it as a broth. Microwaving and stir-frying are the best cooking methods.

Salads are nutrient-dense only if they're colorful, i.e., filled with tomatoes, green peppers, carrots, and dark lettuces. (For example, spinach salad has eight times more magnesium than a salad made with iceberg lettuce.) Don't go to great extremes to create a salad that contains only white lettuce, cucumbers, onions, celery and other pale veggies that offer little more than crunch. When topped with dressing, this crunch simply becomes greasy crunch...a far cry from your needs for nutritious carbohydrates. You'd be better off with tomato juice, vegetable soups (even canned soups are better than nothing), or a raw carrot for a pre-dinner snack.

When all else fails, eat fruit to help compensate for lack of vegetables. The best fruits include bananas, oranges, grapefruit, melon, strawberries and kiwi. These choices are rich in many of the other nutrients you'd get in vegetables. Even veggie haters can nourish themselves adequately if they take appropriate steps to eat a variety of other wholesome foods.

1995 USA TRACK & FIELD JUNIOR NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

A great competitive experience is available for those young athletes born 1976 or later at the end of their championship season. The U.S. Junior National Championships in Track & Field will be held June 23-24, 1995 in Walnut, California at Mt. San Antonio College (30 miles east of Los Angeles). This Meet will bring together the finest young athletes in the country and serve as the qualifying competition for the Pan American Junior Track & Field Championships, in Santiago, Chile later in the Summer.

The U.S. Junior Championship Meet is the only end of season competition for high school athletes that can lead on to valuable international experience as the member of a U.S. Junior National Team.

The U.S. Junior Championship competition is a highlight of the season for the top high school athletes in the nation. The 1994 Junior Championship Meet in Tallahassee, Florida at Florida State University, was headlined by the presence of Track & Field News Prep Female Athlete of the Year, National record setting Discus Thrower, Suzy Powell, from Modesto, California. Suzy later went on to place third in the World Junior Championships as a member of the U.S. Junior National team, after qualifying for that team from the Tallahassee competition. The 1994 World Junior Championships in Lisbon, Portugal was a spectacular one for the Junior National team, with the U.S. almost doubling the medal (gold-silver-bronze) count of any other nation with a total of seventeen first, second, or third place awards. Preps who brought home medals were from Pennsylvania, Tennessee, California, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Colorado, South Carolina, Virginia, and New York, showing the geographically diverse nature of the U.S. Championships and participation from across the country. A number of National High School Records have been set in recent years in the USA Track & Field Junior National Championships or by members of the U.S. Junior National team chosen from that competition during summer international meets. Seven of the top ten on the Boys side in voting for 1994 US Prep Male Athlete of the Year, and nine of the top ten on the Girls side for that honor were all participants in the U.S. Junior National Championships during their prep careers. Many of these athletes were members of the U.S. Junior National team in summer meets, picking up invaluable international experience. The presence at the U.S. Junior Nationals of these top male and female stars shows the importance of that competition in the seasonal plan of top prep athletes. Over half of the U.S. Junior National team selected from last year's U.S. Junior National Championship Meet was of High School age. Most College coaches follow the Junior Championships to discover future recruits. PLAN TO FINISH YOUR 1995 SEASON AGAINST THE VERY BEST OF YOUR AGE, AND PLAN ON THIS INVALUABLE EXPERIENCE IN YOUR 1995 OUTDOOR SEASONAL PLANS!! (as you can see from the qualifying date guidelines on page 31 you may already be qualified from 1994 best efforts).

San Antonio College, 1100 North Grand Avenue, Walnut, CA 91789-1397. You can call (909) 594-5611 Ext. 4840 or (fax) (909) 594-4266. Qualifying Guidelines:

1. Qualifying marks must be made in 1) USA Track & Field sanctioned meets, 2) collegiate meets, or 3) high school meets, except dual and triangular meets. 2. Junior Qualifying standards must be met from May 1, 1994 through June 18, 1995. 3. Junior multi-event marks must be made from January 1, 1994 through June 19, 1995. 4. Indoor marks made after December 1, 1994 are acceptable for entry into the Junior Championships. 5. A three percent (3%) altitude allowance will be permitted on track events of 1500 meters and longer conducted above 4000 feet. 6. Standards for events of 3000 meters and longer must be met on standard tracks, not on road courses. 7. If fully automatic and manual times are both recorded, only FAT can be submitted. Times submitted in hundredths of seconds must be FAT. 8. 1500-meter, 1600-meter, one mile, 3000-meter, 3200-meter, and two mile qualifying times also qualify for the 5000 meters and 10,000 meters both men and women and the 3000 meter steeplechase for men.
